Restoring City Hall Park.

Restoring City Hall Park.

City Hall Park is beginning to look to its old seif. The Mayor's office is proachable without one climbing over small mountain of dirt and rock. No meer are there half-hour blockades one Park Row because of a broken wan truck on the car track with a li cubic yard of dirt in it. The trolley feeders to the trucks have suppeared.

The trolley feeders to the trucks have isspectred. The Evening World did more to force this section of the subway to a finish than any other factor. For months there were no bridges across the subway opposite the Pulitzer Building. The Evening World called Mr. McDonald's attention to the deplorable state of affairs, and now on no section in the sity is there more activity displayed to clean things up than in the vicinity of the limits and the confusion still along There is much confusion still along

There is much confusion still along Centre and Elm streets. Fourth avenue is in good shape up to the Park Avenue Hotel. The contractors have taken away the steam station in front of Everett House. On the east side of frouth avenue men are working day and night to clean up the whole street.

Up in Harlem there is the same activity exhibited. Lenox avenue is in good shape now and the section along Central Park West is to be put in shape. It is safe to say that by Oct. 1, at the remotest date, good old New York will be itself again.

J. P. MORGAN SEES GOOD TIMES AHEAD.

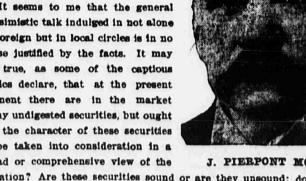

Famous Financier Says that He Can Find No. Cloud in the Sky to Obscure the Present Commercial Prosperity.

J. Pierpont Morgan does not share the pessimistic views of other and esser stock market wiseacres. In an interview to-day—something he rarely indulges in-he declares himself a bull on the country and its future. Mr.

Morgan has been the most prominent bull factor in Wall street for over two years, and he insists his enthusiastic optimism has not abated in the Charging full tilt at the prevailing current stock market gossip, Mr. Morgan says:

"It seems to me that the general pessimistic talk indulged in not alone in foreign but in local circles is in no sense justified by the facts. It may many undigested securities, but ought not the character of these securities to be taken into consideration in a broad or comprehensive view of the

"To my wind and in my judgment these new securities are essentially sound and stable, and those who have them are in no wise alarmed because

"You will find that in due time this phase of the difficulty-growing out of these new securities-will disappear.

"As for the general situation you may state emphatically and unequivocally that it is most promising, with the country unqualifiedly prosperous. In the iron and steel trade, for example—the barometer of the country's growth, stability and business activity—there never was so great or so profitable business. Orders on hand run far ahead and the outlook is decidedly encouraging.

"In short, summing the situation up, not only is there prosperity everywhere but the promises are of a continuation of that prosperity for a long
